Founder's Desk

CA Uttam Prakash Agarwal

Greetings!

I welcome you to another issue of our newsletter UPACA TIMES!

My journey to explore and find solutions to the intricate problems of education continues. In my professional life, I was elected as the youngest President of ICAI in the year 2009-10. I was the leader of over 250000 CAs in India. Since then my responsibility as the most successful ex-president of ICAI has increased manifold. Though I am still learning things about being a leader for many more people and for my own self, this journey has now shifted to preparations and nurturing of future leaders in my domain of Chartered Accountancy. Founding of UPACA GURUKUL is the realization of my cherished dream to create a world class educational hub for Accountancy and Finance professionals.

Our prime attention to nurture our young minds to become 'solution focused' and not 'problem focused'. It is my belief that most often, problem is not a problem, it is the way we respond and react to any problem, is the real problem. We need to reorient and redirect our responses / reactions to problems we face, both in our personal & professional life. We need to inculcate the value of using common sense & connecting the dots speedily and accurately in our future leaders. We would use the world famous framework of OZ PRINCIPLES to inculcate such value in the young minds. This framework uses the 4 simple tools of personal & professional accountability to respond to any problem that are SEE IT, OWN IT, SOLVE IT, and DO IT.

Mere knowledge & skill is not good enough for the aspiring Chartered Accountants. They need to focus equally on ethical conduct and try to become a good human being. A wise analytical brain has to be supplemented with a caring & sensitive heart. It is human weakness to focus on personal factors while we are successful & take shelter behind situational factors when we are unable to achieve the desired results. Oddly, we reverse the process when dealing with other's achievements or lack of achievements. We focus on situational factors when assessing their inadequate performance & fail to give the appreciation of personal abilities when others achieve above the line results.

We need to develop and nurture such leaders who would be willing to take up the blame when things go wrong & would share the credit of successes with their team members.

May God grant me the wisdom to be judicious in all my thoughts and actions!

When all is said and done, the profession is a group of people. Even with all the efforts of ICAI to position its members for success, it comes down to having the quantity and quality of people necessary to bring the profession forward. Efforts of the ICAI to fill the pipeline with future CAs have been very successful, and they will continue to push for more CA candidates to keep up with the growth of the profession. In addition to that, a strong and vibrant profession should reflect the rich and diverse culture of India. We at UPACA must garner talent from every corner to make sure we attract the best and brightest minds to handle tomorrow's challenges and lead CA profession into a new era.

What can we expect in 2018 ?

We know 2018 will be filled with tremendous opportunities made possible by the inspiring daily work of hundreds of thousands of CAs & members of ICAI & the profession's leadership. We are pleased to be living in a time in which we've reflected on our past, celebrated our successes and prepared for the complexity and uncertainty that the future will bring.

UPACA is a prominent player in the accounting community in India. We now wish to be in touch with global accounting community.

CEO Speak

CA Riya Uttam Prakash Agarwal

Greetings !

We are driven by the belief that every child deserves a high-quality education and that educational opportunity is a basic human right. Regardless of where a child is born, who his parents are, the color of her skin, whether she can see or hear, or whether she sleeps in a mansion or a shelter, that child deserves a high-quality education. Providing ample educational opportunities is one of the most fundamental obligations each generation owes to the ones that follow. We are witnessing an intersection of great challenges and great opportunities. At the moment, far too many students lack access to a high-quality education, still others are unable to achieve their full potential. My father Uttam Prakash Agarwal founded UPACA GURUKUL with the aim to undo the fault lines of our present system of education & training in India. He is a living example of integrity and ethical conduct in personal and professional life. UPACA is an institution that puts into action his thought process and value system. It was because of these qualities that he got to the highest post of being elected as President of ICAI....a professional body that today monitors and regulates 265000+ Chartered Accountants in India.

UPACA is poised to make a genuine difference in the world. The tradition of innovation that has marked UPACA is as vibrant as ever. That we are located within the finest location in India gives us unrivaled opportunities. Our students and faculty are unmatched anywhere in the country. We are diverse in our outlook and our approach, beholden not to any ideology but to a fierce desire to discover and help implement what works. Our goal is to change the accounting & financial world through education. It may sound idealistic, but this is precisely our mission. It is what motivates the work of everyone at UPACA from faculty and staff, to students and alumni, to our partners and supporters. It inspires our teaching and our research & other activities. It fuels our work with teachers & students, and leaders in financial education both here and across the globe.

Our classrooms are designed for the 21st century, while technology continues to evolve at a dizzying pace. And much too often, ideology and politics trump evidence and common sense, making it difficult to have honest conversations about the best ways to fix what is broken in education. That is the challenge. At the same time, we have tools available today that were unimaginable a generation ago, in the form of learning technologies and new insights into how the brain develops and functions, which together could change the very nature of teaching and learning.

The future is indeed impatient. With your help, we will begin the next chapter in the life of a financial education school that has been, and will continue to be, like no other. Together, we will learn to change the world.

I thank you for your support.

CA RIYA UTTAM PRAKASH AGARWAL

CEO and DIRECTOR, UPACA GURUKUL

DEAN'S MESSAGE

Professor SUDERSHAN BATRA

My greetings to you!

I joined UPACA GURUKUL as Dean on Wednesday, November 01, 2017. At my age of 67, after 46+ years of experience in higher management education as an Educator, Trainer, Coach, Consultant, Motivator, Mentor, Counselor, I feel my best moment has come now. I am residing in a campus the like of which I have never witnessed before. I feel I am in a living paradise. The campus is to be seen to be believed. It feels too good to be true. I feel blessed.

I have assumed a leadership role as Dean. It is my bounden duty to nurture next generation of leaders. It is a spiritual joy to be able to do that. Most leaders could be sorted into either of four categories:

The Learning Zealot With my position as Dean of UPACA GURUKUL, One of the great satisfactions of being a teacher is that I get to be a leader, sharing the wisdom I've acquired over the course of a career with young colleagues hungry for time-tested advice. Creative leaders are always asking themselves, "Am I learning as fast as the world is changing?" I always ask myself "When's the last time I did something for the first time?" Leaders who are fit for the future are determined keep learning as fast as the world is changing.

The Personal Disruptor: The longer you've worked the more success you've achieved, the harder it can be to see new patterns and possibilities, new paths to what's next. All too often, senior leaders allow what they know to limit what they can imagine. That's a big problem: You can't invent the future if you cling to out-of-date ideas, even if they've worked in the past. We need to blow ourselves up. The act of personal reinvention is brutally difficult and absolutely necessary. Too often, pride in our most recent idea becomes a barrier to seeing our next idea. Leaders who are fit for the future understand when it's time to disrupt themselves. I make it a point to keep giving myself a fresh and a closer look daily, as often as I can.

The Tough-Minded Optimist: Leadership is emotional as well as intellectual. How we present ourselves, the attitude and outlook we exude, sets a tone about what's required to make deep-seated change in turbulent times. The future is not shaped by people who don't really believe in the future. It is created by highly motivated people, by enthusiasts, by men and women who want something very much or believe very much. We need to exude a spirit of energy and confidence that is infectious. If we don't maintain a sense of energy we are hurting the message.

The Eager Experimenter: The most exciting breakthroughs are built on the backs of projects that fizzled, products that bombed, initiatives that failed. That's why leaders who are fit for the future are support lots of ideas, knowing that most of them won't deliver as planned, to discover the few that will deliver bigger than anyone imagined. Failure is just another name for deferred success. We don't know ahead of time if any experiment is going to work. Leaders who are fit for the future understand that there is no success without setbacks, no progress without pitfalls.

I shall make efforts to inculcate the values of all of above kinds of leadership in the new generation of leaders that we are now nurturing at UPACA GURUKUL.

I am in a living paradise at UPACA GURUKUL campus.

Feel free to give your feedback, observations, comments or suggestions to me at dean@upaca.edu.in

My best wishes.

ARTICLESHIP

Khushiram Tola
Nepal
(ARTICLE ASSISTANT)

What is Articleship?

According to people it is practical training that CA students undergo when they are through their IPCC group 1 or when they clear either of the groups as per new course. However, according to me Articleship is something more than that. Articleship should not only comprise of filing to tax returns, learning the documentation, learning about audit and audit procedures. Since Filing of tax returns and documentation is something that anyone can do. But as an article we should know more about the emerging issues that come up around the world. Taxation and auditing however are diminishing their field of scope but there are bigger platforms such as international taxation, private equity investment, venture capital, treasury to know about and work on. I as an article want to learn these things rather than following a traditional earning framework that all articles follow. I as an article aspire to become an Industry specific Chartered Accountant. Very few students learn about cryptocurrency and have some research done, whereas these issues are of significance. Henceforth, my Articleship journey should be full of knowledge and research done over topics that have weight, importance and stature.

So here I am at UPACA Gurukul, where Uttam Abuwala & Company provides industry base Articleship, for a better and a brighter future, where I will have a name made for myself already before qualifying as a Chartered Accountant.

BE DIFFERENT. BE SUCESSFUL.

TESTIMONIALS

“ UPACA Gurukul is a visionary idea to solve problems faced by students who are committed to becoming Chartered Accountants. I remember during my days as a student how much of a struggle it was to balance CA studies with articleship and a bachelor's degree in college. Inadvertently, students end up having to compromise on one of the above - resulting in either poor attendance in college, a sub-standard articleship experience or lack of focus on CA studies; in extreme cases, all of the above. Having a one stop solution for all needs of CA students is a great solution to this problem.

One of the key barriers for students pursuing CA is the lack of focus, being distracted into multiple other courses most often thanks to peer pressure. Guess what, UPACA is an entire ecosystem purely dedicated to CA, no distractions = better focus = great results.

It was my privilege to be part of this initiative during my tenure at Uttam Abuwala and Co. - an opportunity only a visionary like CA UPA could have offered to a fresher like me. Working under his guidance has no doubt played a major role in building a strong foundation for my career. “
